Competitive Spirit	Checking	Player consistently uses controlled skating to accomplish one or more of the following: 1. Angling opponents to the outside by saving ice, timing is great. 2. Establishing body position on puck carrier and uses active stick to block shots, passes or lane to net. 3. Using stick or body to separate opponents from the puck and keep position. 4. While taking a check also gives and initiates, mindful of rolling and slipping off checks to effectively win battles on the puck.	Player frequently uses: 1. Concepts of angling, saving ice, quick feet and an active stick to pursue the puck or attacker. 2. Once body position is established player initiates body contact and stickchecks to separate player from the puck but timing is sometime off causing the player to be slightly out of position. 3. Involved in physical play, initiates and can receive.	Player engages in play but without quick feet or a quick stick. Body contact is happening out of chance most of the time because of straight line skating. Sometime avoids contact by arriving too early or late causing the player to look like he is almost getting out of there.	Because player lacks fundamental skating skills he is not an effective checker and makes very little attempt to get engaged in the play to cause a turnover.
